Dr. James Henry Chapin was a Universalist minister with many avocations as well. His first pastorate was in Pekin, Ill. from 1859-1863, and the second in Meriden, Conn. 1873-1885. Between them stretched a decade packed with a bewildering variety of occupations including two years as professor of physical sciences at St. Lawrence University and a trip to Europe. During his Meriden pastorate, he served seven years as superintendent of schools and published a volume of religious essays. Resigning on account of failing health, he established a reputation of a globe trotter, traveling 36,000 miles in 303 days. He later published a volume of sketches of travel in China and Japan. He was elected to the Connecticut House of Representatives. Later he served on the Topographical Survey of Conn.

Dr. Chapin has been styled one of the ablest, most active, and widely traveled of the Chapin Family.

Charles Augustus Chapin's life was largely spent in working rich iron deposits and developing hydraulic water power of the St. Joseph river. After years of conflict in court with powerful New York capitalists, there being at one time 56 lawsuits going, he emerged at the end the controlling owner of the Indiana and Michigan Electric Co., which built the Berrien Springs and Elkhart dams and furnishes electric light and power to Southwestern Michigan and Northwestern Indiana. The harnessing of St. Joseph's river is Mr. Chapin's crowning achievement. He died worth $15,000,000, of which his family has given several hundred thousand dollars for benevolent purposes, including a superb edifice for the Presbyterian church of Niles, Mich., where three generations of the family had worshipped and the Michigan Children's Aid Soc. building, Lansing.

Mr. James J. Goodwin was educated in private and the Hartford High School, continuing study in European travel. He was a partner of his cousin, J. Pierpont Morgan, representing George Peabody & Co., of London, his father being a member of the firm. His business connections were widespread. He was director of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., Hartford Fire Insurance, Collins Co., Connecticut Trust and Safe Deposit Co., also the Holyoke Water Power Co. and several railroad companies. He was a communicant of Christ Church, Hartford and vestryman and senior warden in Calvary Church in New York.

His interest in Hartford was manifested in generous ways through his life time. His many generous gifts in philanthropic and religious circles cannot be enumerated. He was a large-hearted, genial, broad-minded man, giving help and inspiration to all who came in contact with him.

John Pierpont Morgan was educated in England and Germany and trained in finance in the offices of his father, Junius Spencer Morgan, who was the leading financier of the United States and founder of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., to the control of which the son succeeded him and sustained the character and reputation of the company. J. P. Morgan had large interest and control in railroads, ships, coal mines, industrial properties, and the company always had a large part in financing loans and floating bonds for the government both in war and peace. He was a generous giver to churches and hospitals, and especially to the cathedral of St. John the Divine, the American Museum of Natural History, the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the New York Public Library. He was born in Hartford and was always interested in the development of that city. He made many gifts and the Morgan Memorial with its fine art treasures will keep his name always before the people of Hartford in grateful remembrance.

Rev. Dr. Edwin Hubbell Chapin was the famous Universalist preacher of New York, a contemporary and intimate personal friend of Henry Ward Beecher. The latter used to say that their friendship was due to their common Chapin blood. Dr. Chapin's early education was "picked up" as he went about with his father, an itinerant portrait painter. He tried the stage and the law and discovered his career as one of the most eloquent of American preachers almost by accident, after a dramatic religious conversion. For fourteen years in New York city he filled one of the city's largest Broadway churches to overflowing Sunday after Sunday.

Dr. John Bassett Chapin was an alienist of distinguished fame in America and Europe. He served as medical officer in hospitals for 61 years, being for several years at the Utica (N. Y.) State Insane Asylum, then associated in the management of Brigham Hall, a private hospital for the insane at Canandaigua, N. Y., and afterward for many years was physician in chief at the Pennsylvania Hospital for the Insane in Philadelphia. His greatest work of usefulness was in bettering the lamentable condition of the chronic insane poor herded in almshouses, prisons and jails, and the founding of the great Willard State Hospital where such unfortunates were given occupation, fresh air, and sympathetic treatment. Dr. Chapin was honorary member of medical societies in Great Britain and Belgium and the author of "A Compendium of Insanity for Physicians and Students" and of many contributions to medical papers.

Rev. Mr. Gates graduated from Williams College in 1871 and from Yale Divinity School in 1875. He went out under American Board to the Marathi Mission in 1875, and served in India for 47 years with his wife. Mrs. Gates went with a party to India in 1864 as a child. After a furlough to this country he returned to Sholapur and died Sept. 7, 1922 as the result of an attack by an insane Mohammedan.

Half a century of service as a lawyer in Lansing, Michigan, won for Edward Cornelius Chapin an enviable reputation. It is said of him that "he was of an excellent humanity, and as kindly and courteous a gentleman as ever filled out his life with honorable deeds," that he inspired friendship and repaid it a hundredfold, that no one ever heard him utter a word in disparagement of his friends. Although he suffered intensely from chronic asthma he kept a cheerful philosophy, an equable temper, and a whimsical humor which lightened life for all who knew him. Diligent in civic service, a man with a deep sense of moral obligation, a quiet hero in his semi-invalid life, his example will live.

Mr. Chapin's parents moved from Indiana to Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and from his boyhood surroundings,—prairies, soldiers and Indians—he acquired a love of adventure, travel and discovery. Upon the death of his mother he came to Hartford, Conn. to live with relatives and made that city his home for the rest of his life. He became a member of a firm of wholesale druggists, but retained his love for travel. He made eight camping trips to the Rockies, two to the Swiss Alps and one to the Himalayas. Mr. Chapin also developed a great interest in the cliff-dwellers of the Southwest, upon which subject he published a book as well as one on mountaineering. He was a member of numerous scientific societies.

† 2 Frederick William Seward had a career worthy of his father's son. He was trained for the law, but affairs of state claimed him for their own. It was he who, in 1861, was sent to warn Abraham Lincoln of a plot to assassinate him. He very nearly lost his life in defending his father from the assassins April 14, 1865. He was assistant Secretary of State from 1861 to 1869 and from 1877 to 1881. As acting Secretary of State he sat in the cabinets of Lincoln, Johnson and Hayes. He was sent on a special mission with Admiral Porter to negotiate West Indian treaties in 1867, participated in negotiations for Pago-Pago Harbor, Samoa, and in the purchase of Alaska. He was the author of the Life and Letters of William Henry Seward, his illustrious father.

Sec'y Seward was first Whig governor of New York; U. S. Senator 1849, re-elected 1855, and was Secretary of State during the Civil War and President Johnson's term. Many of his speeches and addresses were published.

Hon. Frederick Douglass' Tribute to John Brown.

"If," said he, "John Brown did not end the war that ended slavery, he at least began the war that ended slavery. If we look over the dates, places, and men for which this honor is claimed, we shall find that not Carolina, but Virginia; not Fort Sumter, but Harper's Ferry and the arsenals; not Major Anderson, but John Brown, began the war that ended American slavery and made this a republic. Until this blow was struck the prospect for freedom was dim, shadowy and uncertain. The irrepressible conflict was one of words, votes, and compromises. When John Brown stretched forth his arm, the sky was cleared, the armed hosts of freedom stood face to face over the chasm of a broken union, and the clash of arms was at hand."

Nathaniel Gates Chapin went to Boston, then but nine years a city, at the age of seventeen, and found occupation in a wholesale dry goods establishment. About 1840 he started a small commission business, but six years later entered into business with his father-in-law under the style of Fisher and Chapin. His subsequent business connections included treasurer of the Eastern Railroad, director and later president of the Massachusetts National Bank and director of the New England Mutual Insurance Co.

He was a member of the Church of the Disciples, Massachusetts Horticultural Society, New England Historical Society and the Handel and Haydn Society.

Hermon Merrill Chapin was a sincere Christian, an ardent patriot and successful business man; his active life was spent largely in Cleveland. He was doubtless the only man ever chosen mayor of a city without his knowledge of the fact until after the election. In 1865 while away on a business trip he was nominated as the best qualified man for the office and elected by a strong majority. He accepted in the spirit of duty and gave the city a diligent and efficient administration.

At the outbreak of the Civil War Mr. Chapin took an active part in many ways;—notably in making possible the equipping of the 29th regiment.

He was a promoter of the splendid Cleveland Public Library and in various other ways displayed great civic pride.

His early years were spent at school and business in New Hartford, Conn., but in 1865 he went south with his father. Cotton growing interested him and he invested in a plantation. Soon, however, he went to Cleveland, O., and entered with his cousin the packing business. Shortly after his marriage at New Lisbon, O., in 1868, he entered business with his wife's brothers under name Hanna Chapin & Co. They engaged in navigation and the production of kerosene. This latter business brought him in contact with the Standard Oil which proved a bonanza to him. His later life was spent in Kentucky where he was very happy raising blooded horses. His death came suddenly while visiting at the home of his brother at Johnstown, Pa.

Moses J. Chapin, born and reared in New England, was in 1861 a resident of Sherman, Texas, working at the carpenter's trade. He enlisted as a volunteer in the 9th Texas Infantry, and served to the close of the war. He was wounded slightly. After a residence in Tennessee, where he married, he returned to Sherman and prepared for the practice of law. He prepared an abstract of land titles in Grayson County, accepted as a finality by members of the bar. This work gave him opportunities for gain which he steadfastly refused, and often gave advice without hope of fee or reward. Temperate, tolerant and charitable, kind to everyone, true to his friends, in many respects a remarkable man.

Hon. Stephen Grover Cleveland was twenty-second and twenty-fourth President of the United States; academic education (LL.D., Princeton, 1897); went to Buffalo, 1855, became clerk in a law office and was admitted to bar, 1859; assistant district attorney Erie County, 1863-66; sheriff Erie County, 1870-73; established law practice; in 1881 was elected mayor of Buffalo. His veto of extravagant appropriations directed outside attention to him and led to his nomination and election as governor the following year; in 1884 elected President of the United States, as Democrat, over James G. Blaine, Republican, by majority of thirty-seven electoral votes; in 1888 again Democratic nominee, but defeated by Benjamin Harrison; returned to law practice, locating in New York; in 1892 again elected president as Democrat, defeating President Harrison; in 1896 the Democratic party having declared for the free coinage of silver in the platform of its national convention, Cleveland withheld his support from the ticket and platform. He took up his residence, after his second retirement from the White House, at Princeton, N. J.

Rev. Eben Hubert Chapin was a Universalist minister of power and ability. He left a comfortable Boston pastorate to take a difficult mission post at Lincoln, Nebr. He built a strong church there and also entered prominently into civic affairs. He helped establish the Charity Organization Society and the Oratorio Society, of which he was president. He was on the board of the Public Library, an officer of the Law and Order League, and a member of the School Board. In 1896 he accepted the chair of sociology at Lombard College, but after three years returned to the ministry at Rockland, Me., where he labored until his death.

† 3 Bessie Irene began her career at the age of ten as a child violinist. In 1908 she studied abroad with Henri Marteau. Before her return in 1911 she toured Bohemia, Austria and Germany giving court performances. She has achieved a notable artistic triumph in Los Angeles where her Morning Musicales became a feature of the social as well as the musical year.

Will E. Chapin early distinguished himself as journalist and illustrator for the press. In 1892-1894 he was head of the Art Department of the Chicago Graphic of which his wife was managing editor. He wrote and illustrated a volume of travels and a book of sketches of Colonial life. For fifteen years he was cartoonist for the famous Los Angeles Times winning a reputation as one of the leading cartoonists in the country. In 1904 temporary blindness diverted him to ranching in the Sierras. He has contributed hunting and fishing sketches to Outdoor Life, Forest and Stream, etc., and stories to the American Boy and Boy Life. His wife has had a notable career as editor, author and lecturer.

† 2 was born in Kalgan, China, and enlisted in the World War in Ohio and served until about November, 1917, when he was discharged as physically unfit.

† 5 was born in Pang Chuang, China, and graduated from the Chemical College in the University of Michigan in 1917. Engaged in work on government vessels at Wyandotte. Enlisted and was sent to Camp Custer and later to Edgewood Arsenal, Md., to engage in the making of poison gas, and discharged in the spring of 1919.

Rev. Franklin M. Chapin, missionary, went out to China soon after his marriage. He went through the Siege of Pekin with his wife and his two sons. While in China he opened the station of Lintsing, in Shantung, being the only preaching missionary in charge during the last four years there, the station expanding from a membership of 100 to 540 under his care. He was treasurer and business agent for the North China Mission in 1898-9. He returned for good in 1906, owing to ill health, devoting himself thereafter to evangelistic work and writing, making his home in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Reverend Lorin Henry Gates, one of the most promising of the young missionaries of the American Marathi Mission, in India, died an untimely death in 1921 when the motor-cycle on which he was speeding from Poona to a Boy Scout meeting at Mahableshwar, went over an embankment, dashing him to the bottom of a ravine seventy feet below the road. He was a man whose legal, theological and general training gave him exceptional fitness for the many-sided activity of a modern mission field. He was as intelligently efficient as he was spiritually alive. He had been but six years in India, but the work he was beginning, in the Leper Asylum, in club work for boys and young men, in teacher's training classes for native students, and in Union Divinity College, made it hard to fill his place, while his strong young Christian manhood impressed itself upon his native disciples who mourned sore for "Harry Saheb." Mr. Gates and his wife were the representatives of Immanuel Cong. Church of Hartford, Conn., and she continues the work.

Roy Dikeman Chapin is chairman of the board of the Hudson Motor Car Co., and an officer and director in many national and Detroit organizations. He is a leader in the automobile industry and the youngest man in it to occupy such an important place. The University of Michigan gave him the Master of Arts degree and the citation of him for that honor read as follows:

"Roy Dikeman Chapin, Detroit, president of the Hudson Motor Car Company; a former student of the University of Michigan; since early manhood associated with the automobile industry and for more than a decade one of the guiding brains in its development. Diligent and forceful in promoting good roads and other commendable public enterprises; chairman of the Highway Transport Committee of the Council of National Defense; ungrudgingly contributing his exceptional ability and ripe experience to the needs of his country during the war crisis."

Mr. Chapin is a vice-president of the Chapin Family Association and has been active and generous in the promoting and setting up as a memorial to Deacon Samuel Chapin of a reredos in the Church of St. John the Baptist in Paignton, England.

Mr. Blake's inherited tendency towards mechanics and an apprenticeship with a boiler and engine construction company moulded his future career. Before he was twenty-one he gained his license as marine engineer and shortly afterwards he was licensed as a chief engineer of ocean vessels. After an experience alternating between marine and stationary service he entered the steam boiler insurance field as inspector and adjuster. In 1898 he went with the Hartford (Conn.) Steam Boiler Inspection and Insurance Company as general agent. Through succeeding promotions he rose to be president of that company, which position he now holds.

Mr. Blake was one of the charter members of the Chapin Family Association and served on its executive committee for a number of years. He is a prominent figure in Hartford business circles and has a host of business and personal friends.

William Henry Seward, son and namesake of the great Secretary of State, was first a distinguished soldier, serving throughout the Civil War, being promoted for gallantry in 1864 to the rank of Brigadier-General. With the return of peace he became the head of the banking firm of William H. Seward and Co. in Auburn, N. Y., where he has remained until his death. Banking did not however, absorb all his energies which have been in part devoted to political and civic affairs. He has been President of the Seymour Library, a member of the Cayuga Historical Society, Sons of the Revolution, and the Loyal Legion. In 1888 he was President of the Electoral College of New York.

† 5 was married and divorced.

Charles Enoch Perkins, after graduation at Williams College (1853), returned to Hartford and entered the law office of his father and was admitted to the bar in 1855. For more than forty years he stood in the first rank at the bar in Connecticut, a learned lawyer whom other lawyers were always anxious to consult. He probably tried more cases before the Supreme Court of the state than any other lawyer of his time. "He was a man who had no controversies and who made no enemies because he was liked by everyone who knew him. He was dignified but not reserved in character, and his fairness of treatment of all persons at the bar and in private life was proverbial." So wrote of him his fellow lawyer and life-long friend, Judge Briscoe. At one time Mr. Perkins was offered an appointment as chief justice of the supreme court of his state, but after careful consideration declined on the ground that his gifts qualified him better for the bar than the bench.

From boyhood he was fond of hunting and fishing and these for many years were his recreations. He was widely informed on many subjects besides law, and the literary lights of Hartford were his close friends. He declined public office, but was representative in the Legislature when making Hartford the sole capital was under consideration. His assistance secured the passage of the measure over much opposition.

William Howard Taft Twenty-seventh President of the United States; Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court.

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT
CINCINNATI, OHIO

Hot Springs, Virginia,
November 30, 1908.

My dear Mr. Chapin:

I have your letter of November 6th, and am glad to know that we are related and thank you for sending me the genealogical line that shows it.

I knew that there was a connection between the two families, because I have heard my Father speak of it. Indeed, there was another quasi-connection. My grandfather Torrey married for his first wife Delia Chapin but had no children by her. The first daughter of his second wife he named Delia Chapin.

Thank you and, through you, the whole Chapin family for the congratulations that on their behalf you extend to me because of the election.

Sincerely yours,

Wm. H. Taft

Mr. Gilbert W. Chapin,
Hartford, Conn.

Dr. Swormstedt, husband of Mabel Lee Godfrey, it is worth noting, belonged to the splendid, loyal German stock which took so fine a part in the Civil War. He was the son of Dr. Samuel Swormstedt, who practiced medicine in Carroll Co., Md., and was almost the only Abolitionist to be found in that region. A great admirer of Lyman Beecher; he named his son for him.

THE END

"So live, that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan, which moves
To that mysterious realm, where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls of death.
Thou go not, like the quarry-slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon, but, sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave,
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams."
